

EMF Balancing Technique

This elegant Energy work developed by Peggy Dubro since 1988, has diligently and extensively mapped the Universal Calibration Lattice (UCL). Peggy's deep insight, sensitivity and joy for life have endeared her to thousands of people worldwide by helping them to develop their innate ability to effectively activate the potentials within themselves.

The UCL (An Inter-Dimensional Web) is our personal energetic doorway to linking with the vast energies of the Cosmic Lattice, the unlimited or universal energy source. This is why we often refer to this process as the “rewiring for the new energy”. It allows us to receive and use the energy we are learning to release from the Cosmic Lattice and from within ourselves. The Cosmic Lattice does not exist only in some far away or exotic place. It permeates our very existence, right down to the cellular level, and beyond, into our subatomic energy field.

The UCL enhances and celebrates the evolution of the individual. This structure also enhances the connection to the Oneness of being here now.

The UCL is made up of very fine golden fibres of light and energy. It begins from a central core that runs through our body and radiates out from the physical body. These fine fibres radiate outwards from the energy centers (chakras) and form themselves into infinity loops, which connect to other parts of the UCL. Each part of the UCL gets activated through the different sessions/phases of the EMF Balancing Technique. Tracing the pattern of the phases through the UCL awakens specific energy patterns within the energy field called templates'. Each phase awakens a specific template. The Templates are patterns of light and energy forming three dimensional shapes. Our templates resonate with each of our potentials, our special gifts and abilities. We all have something unique to offer and our templates transmit and receive information about this, helping us to discover why we are here and what role we have to play.

Each Phase has an overall intent.

Phase 1 has an intent of balancing the wisdom and emotions. It helps to create a balance between the intelligence of the mind and that of the heart. Great for stress relief.

Phase 2 Intent of this session is to promote Self-direction and Self-support. The goal here is to retain the wisdom of the experiences and events from our past, moving into a state of of gratitude for all we have learned. Working on back fibres.

Phase 3 This session intensifies our core energy, the vertical column of light & energy fibres throughout the entire being. Here we are also balancing the side fibres – balancing ‘giving and receiving’. The smaller chakras are calibrated here.

Phase 4 We focus our intent on energetic accomplishment. The long info fibres in the front are calibrated, so that we may joyfully co-creat our potential.

There are many benefits to this profound, elegant energy work. The sessions are always so Relaxing and empowering.
